Test loss for small-world networks of different sizes, with different simplex thresholding